Historical Interest Projects

Description of Projects

At Stanton Consulting Engineers we appreciate that when refurbishing buildings of historical interest the building services installation is often over looked.

With careful consideration to detail we can deliver a building services design that captures the demanding requirements of current building legislation whilst staying sympathetic to the character of the original building.

Projects that we have brought back to life include:

- The Green Man, Ashbourne
- The Mermaid, Leek
- Lord John Russel, Alton
- Twyfords Factory, Stoke
- Hospital Workhouse, Stoke
